BULLETIN No. 41

OFFICIAL TRAIL RIDE OF 1936

The policy which governs the selection of routes for our Official Trail Rides is framed with the object of providing an interesting trip through spectacular mountain scenery over trails which are in good condition and reach camping grounds at suitable intervals with adequate grazing for the large number of saddle and pack horses required for approximately forty riders.

In selecting these routes we naturally ask for the advice of the Superintendents of the National Parks which we propose to visit, and for the ride of 1936 we have enjoyed valuable and welcome cooperation from Major P. J. Jennings, Superintendent of the Banff National Park, who offered to personally inspect a route new to most of our members which he thought offered attractive features, with good fishing at several lakes by the way. Harry Pollard accompanied Major Jennings on this reconnaissance and sent in a large number of photographs, together with the description printed in this bulletin.

REPORT OF HARRY POLLARD ON THE PROPOSED ROUTE OF THE TRAIL RIDE FOR 1936

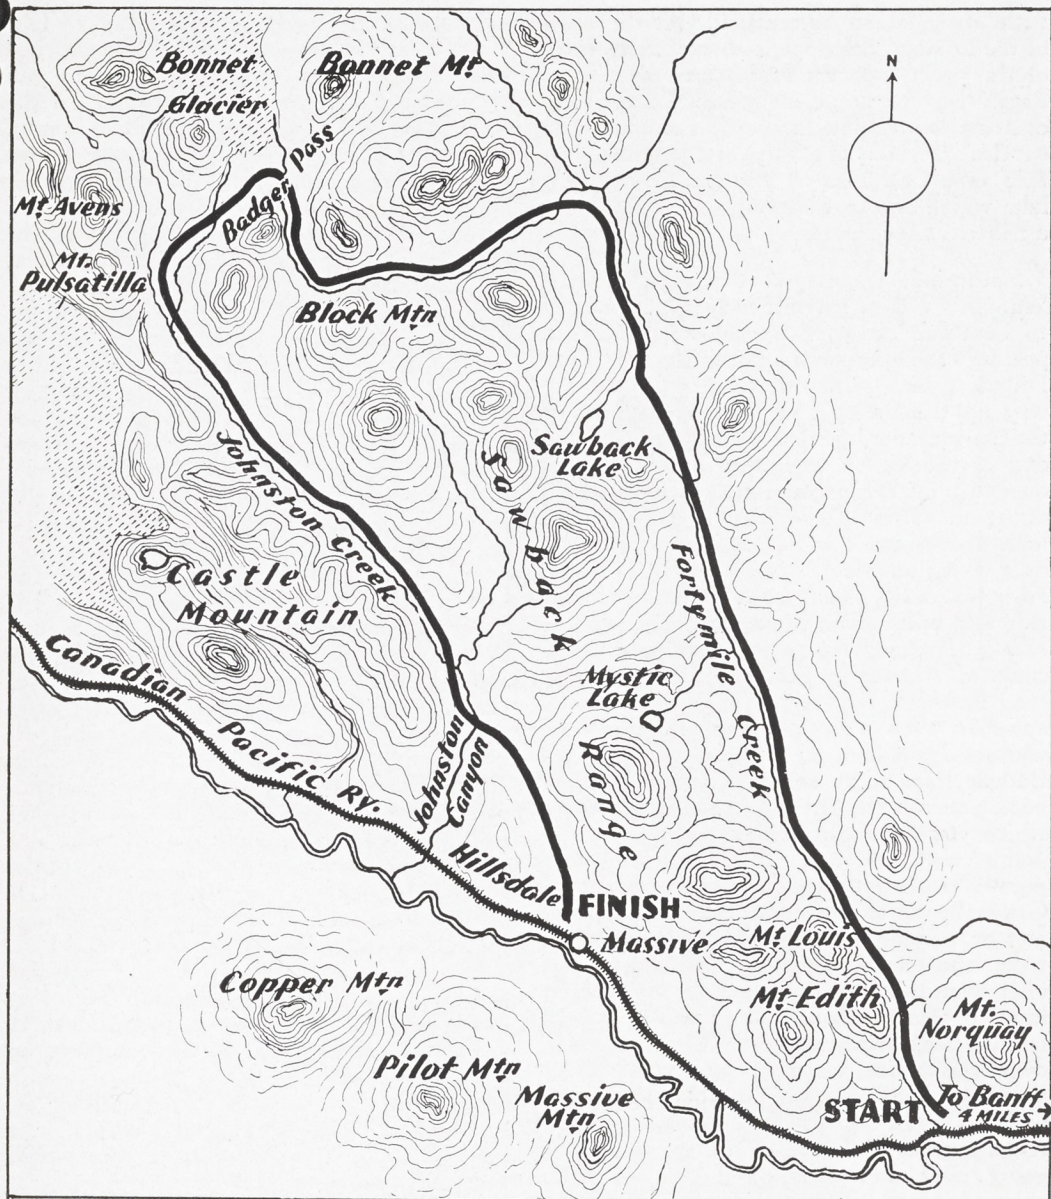

The Ride as proposed for 1936 is going to be a delightful one, with fine open Alpine Meadows, high Passes, good timber and a path of burnt over area that illustrates to the lover of the great outdoors the disastrous results of carelessness, of camp fires neglected, of the thoughtlessness of the smoker in discarding his matches or cigarette butts.

For the fisherman of the ride, beautiful stream fishing in the Cascade, and by making the delightful little side trips to Sawback and Mystic Lakes. More good fishing in real mountain lakes.

We started our ride at Hillsdale, but both Major Jennings, the Park Superintendent, and myself are agreed it would be more advisable to reverse the ride, starting at Edith Pass, where there is no place for your Pow-Wow tent, and the crowd that would likely want to attend this—on the other hand at Hillsdale you have beautiful open meadows, a corral for the horses and lots of room for hundreds of cars, and is only about 14 miles from Banff. I will try and illustrate the ride as we made it from Hillsdale to Edith, and by reversing you will have the ride as we think you should make it.

We met at the Warden's Cabin at Massive. Major Jennings, Park Superintendent, Mr. Jones and myself and two Wardens packed and rode West to Hillsdale, where we stopped and made a few snaps of the open meadows. Below the Sawback Range our route lies over the Summit of the timber on the left, overlooking the Valley of Johnston Creek, up which the trail goes. Looking back from the open meadow you have the views of the Range south of the C.P.R. right of way and the motor road—this you must agree is a very ideal spot for the location of the Pow Wow for the Sing-Song. After going over the Summit you descend to the level of Johnston Creek, where if you cross the stream you will see rather a novel sight called the Pot Holes, a series of ice-cold Springs. The trail crosses beautiful open meadows with soaring mountains on either side, until we reach the Warden's Cabin on Johnston Creek. The camping spots are good a short distance beyond the Cabin, and in case any of the riders wished to make a short side trip there is a most beautiful lake (unnamed as yet) about two miles long with no trail up to it as yet, but with a little struggle can be reached. At the head of the Lake on the ridge is an exact duplicate of the Sphinx, so the Major and myself are suggesting the name of Sphinx Lake. The old original Sphinx faces the East and the sunrise over the old City of Memphis, but this one overlooks a beautiful mountain lake which one of these days is going to be a fisherman's paradise.

Proposed route of Trail Ride — July 31 - August 4 — 1936

The supply of horses, guides, setting up of camps and catering will be in the hands of Claude Brewster, of the Kananaskis Ranch in partnership with Ed. Ogan of Canmore, who will cooperate with the Brewster Transport Company, in order to ensure adequate supply of horses in case of any emergency. The rate will be $45. for the 5 day trail ride including motor bus transport to the point of departure from Banff and from the Pow Wow back to Banff, rate covering use of saddle horse, service of guides, tent equipment and food. Trail Riders must provide their own sleeping bags and blankets, of which there will be a limited supply on rent.

Claude Brewster has agreed to quote a special rate at Kananaskis Ranch for those wishing to spend a few days hardening up in advance of the Trail Ride.

Returning, we stayed the night at the Warden's Cabin, leaving early next morning to continue our ride up Johnston's Creek, passing the proposed place of the Trail Riders' Camp, with nice level going all the way up the Valley and wide open views of the surrounding peaks. We approach the end of the Valley where we branch off for our trip over Badger Pass. From where our trail turns off to go over Badger you look up toward the Johnston Pass Summit, over which our riders went several years ago. Now we return to our right for a spectacular ride and climb over the rocky Badger Pass, riding along a sharp ridge where your panorama of views grows on you at every step. You look over this ridge to where a creek splashes over a series of waterfalls, and you get from here an unobstructed view of Badger Pass right ahead of you. Looking back you see the range of mountains along which you have already ridden, coming up Johnston Creek and, to your left, spear-pointed peaks and wide open Alpine meadows. Gradually ascending, you leave the spruce and fir, passing into the last of the mountain trees, the Larch, which at the time of our visit were all turning to gold. The old knarled weather beaten, but still game, old larch is seen in my photograph looking back over the route we had just come over. Looking ahead you wonder just where you will make it. Over the mass of broken rocks a good trail rider will dismount, after going over a trail marked by just little cairn of stones. To get the general direction you reach the ridge and look right down into the rocky amphitheatre of the source of the Cascade River. The little back creek at the bottom picture is actually the start of a big river. Our horses rested on this breezy ridge, while I made a few pictures looking back over the Valley we had just ascended and looking down at the route ahead of us. Badger Pass has a steep descent, where it is advisable to walk in places. Our Camp will be in the valley to the left of Block Mountain on a swell fishing stream (The Cascade) with wide open meadows and (boy!) what fishing!. This Peak, after you turn to descend the Cascade from Badger Pass, is looking down at you on your right all the way to camp. In the flats there is a suggested place for a Camp. Rather late that evening we pulled into the Warden's Cabin. With our weather still holding good for us the Major and Jones decided to cast a fly early in the morning and see if they could give us a real treat for breakfast. The Major and Jones returned with a few, and I guess you know how the hot pan and butter worked for breakfast. I spoke before about the sharp pointed mountain called Block Mountain, and now as you look at it from your Cascade Camp it looks quite different. There are beautiful fishing holes along the Cascade. Lots of room to spread out and lots of fish for everyone. Our weather was changing and getting colder and overcast, and as we wished to make the Mystic Cabin for the night and at the same time do both the Sawback and Mystic Lakes, we had a long day ahead. One of my photographs will show where the Sawback Lake empties, so that we could report on the fishing, the boys must try their luck and we can report it was good. We arrived at the Mystic Cabin in the late afternoon, and as Percy Woodworth, the Warden, thought the weather would break, he advised us to take our saddle ponies and go on to Mystic Lake at once. So along we trotted toward this beauty spot. The Lake lies in the hollow, just below the snow. We passed the C.P.R. Cabin and I must say that with all due respect to the men who tramp and ride the trails, that they show very little respect for a free cabin placed at their disposal by a Company which is trying to foster within people the love of the big outdoors by supplying shelter (and good shelter). At least you would expect anyone who would take advantage of this favor to leave it clean for the next one to come along, and until hikers and riders learn the lesson of thinking of the next person, I would say let them still have to pack along their own tents, etc., as these cabins cannot be built just for love unless they are respected by the people who make use of them.

The trail to Mystic Lake is good, and you will get a real eyefull of some of the finest standing timber I have ever seen on this side of the slopes, beautiful, virgin forest with some trees three to four feet thick and soaring up to the clouds as straight as the skyscrapers of New York. You come out at the end of the lake and your first view is a beautiful mountain lake, smaller than the Sawback, but of a far more beautiful color. The boys tried their luck again and got a few on the slopes: above us we spied six mountain goat and right under them a herd of about 50 mountain sheep grazing. Our threatened storm was on us, and as the Major in his hurry to land a two pound trout got too anxious, and as usual on a slippery log, with no hobs in his shoes, we heard the splash. But we saw the fish and had him for dinner later on. Naturally, we hurried back, as it was starting to snow, and getting cold and dark, but it was a delightful strenuous day and we needed no rocking to sleep. Our last ideas of the wilds was the bull elk on the slopes outside the cabin bugling out their shrill challenges. Starting early in the morning we pass the proposed camp site, just before the trail branches off to Mystic Lake. It is ideal for camping with lots of feed and good water. Riding on down the valley toward the landmark of Mount Edith, you will note the thumb sticking up in the distance. As we continued along this beautiful valley of the Forty Mile Creek, unspoiled by fire, and see game of all kinds, we thought of the pleasure of being able to make this ride as conducted by the well organized Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies with a bunch of congenial lovers of the out of doors. It is a real honor to be a member of an organization which fosters these rides into the little travelled areas. As you approach closer to Edith Pass you see two spires, Mount Edith and Mount Louis. Before we knew it we were looking back over the Valley of the Forty Mile. Then a rather fast descent from the Summit of Edith Pass to the motor road, where Percy Woodworth, the Warden, and myself, turned West and our congenial Park Superintendent, Major Jennings, and Mr. Jones, turned East to Banff. I thought, riding along, if only the people who never get into the Mountains further than driving over these hard surfaced highways could only have been along with us on horses for the last five days, how much more they could have returned to their homes in other lands as great boosters for the Canadian Rockies and the "Trail Riders."
